

EUCLID COUNCIL 2008-01-02

Item 5b Creation of a register of programme evaluators

Institutions offering LIS programmes, or their governing bodies, will sometimes wish to have their programmes or part of programmes evaluated. It is presumed that such evaluators can be found among present or former faculty members of our member institutions.

A register of evaluators should therefore be created. To recruit members, EUCLID should ensure that the corps consists of people with broad knowledge of the LIS field documented by a PhD or corresponding qualifications.

EUCLID's role will be to assist institutions in finding appropriate evaluators, but have no responsibility – legal or economic, for the outcome of the evaluation.

Proposal:

EUCLID's council 2008 resolves to create a register of programme evaluators and asks the board to take necessary steps to establish a register before the autumn term 2008 and to inform the institutions and their governing bodies of its existence and possible use.
